newer, fiercer blow is felt. Who the warning of the Emperor in all their consequences will, who dare nevertheless never in a simultaneous manner with the Emperor's will, whose common deed and driving force is the glorification of the Emperor Wilhelm I. and the national state of affairs above all else.

is that the Regiment on 3 Battalions is cut off, and when a third part is missing, so that this deficiency of the action capability is more than a third. It would be now about a reinforcement of 16000 men. That the XI. Army Corps is too large, is already an old complaint. The Army Corps has 3 Divisions, but also these are unusually large. The 21st has 6 Infantry Regiments, but the 18. Division in Darmstadt has only one Infantry Brigade of 3 Infantry Regiments. That Mainz as the seat of the General Command is in the eye of the storm, ergab sich aus militärischen Gründen. Mainz ist jetzt schon ziemlich stark mit Militär besetzt. Es ist wohl anzunehmen, daß bei der letzten Anwesenheit des Kaisers in Mainz in Besprechungen mit dem Großherzog von Hessen die Frage des neuen Generalcommandos (heißendes Army Corps) eine entgeltliche Regelung gefunden haben wird. Soweit das nationale liberale Kölnische Blatt, das die neue Militärvorlage also billigt. Die liberale Presse fährt indessen fort, die Vorlage als unannehmbar zu charakterisieren und daran die Prophezeiung zu knüpfen, daß wegen derselben eine Reichstagsauflösung im kommenden Frühjahr unvermeidlich sei. — Der 'Hbg. Corr.' berichtet entgegen allen übrigen Blättern, daß weder die Errichtung eines neuen Army Corps in Mainz noch die Bildung von dritten Battalionen bei den neuen Regimentern geplant sei. Diese Stimme steht aber nicht nur vereinzelt da, sondern findet auch keinen Glauben.

Zur Kaiserrede in Mainz.

Emperor Wilhelm II. has in Mainz in the presence of the Mayor and the city council a short speech held, which has a new and important meaning for our monarch.

Mainz as a place of rich historical memories lent the Emperor's gaze back to the past. Here in Mainz were first the threads of the old Reich's history woven. The Emperor's speech was a reminder of the German nation's history. With a powerful voice he spoke of the German nation's history and the Emperor's role in it.

So much light shines from this dark background. The Emperor's speech was a reminder of the German nation's history and the Emperor's role in it. It was a call to action for the German people.

Die Sternwirthin.

Erzählung für das Volk von A. v. Saba.

On the same day as he wrote the old man to the Emperor. He told him that he had written the Emperor a letter. He told him that he had written the Emperor a letter. He told him that he had written the Emperor a letter.

when the kinship was given to him and he did not feel the heat. It was very hot, where he lived, and many foreigners came to him.

The whole letter breathed only one word for the child, that the pastor should give the child some medicine. It was very hot, where he lived, and many foreigners came to him.

From that hour on, where he was with the pastor, he felt as if he had been struck by lightning. He felt as if he had been struck by lightning. He felt as if he had been struck by lightning.

His own life seemed to him to be a dream. He felt as if he had been struck by lightning. He felt as if he had been struck by lightning. He felt as if he had been struck by lightning.

He felt as if he had been struck by lightning. He felt as if he had been struck by lightning. He felt as if he had been struck by lightning. He felt as if he had been struck by lightning.

He felt as if he had been struck by lightning. He felt as if he had been struck by lightning. He felt as if he had been struck by lightning. He felt as if he had been struck by lightning.

Er sah finster, aber ruhig und gefaßt aus, so daß der Knecht meinte, er habe es niedergelämpft und sich drein gefunden. Darum hinderte er's nicht, daß der Wurzer gleich zu seinem Weibe hinüberging.

Er schritt so ruhig und nachdenklich auf die Thür zu, hinter der die Bäuerin lag, als habe er nur eine gerechte Aussprache mit ihr vor. Kaum aber war er in der Kammer verschwunden, da hob sich seine Stimme zu wildem Geschrei und ein Stuhl, den er wohl in seinem Zorn ergriffen, flog krachend nieder, daß die Mauern erbebten. Ein schreckliches Toben brach aus seiner Brust, das sich in Schmähungen Luft machte. Dazwischen schrie und weinte die Resei, und auch das Kind erhob seine kleine Stimme. Es war ein schimmernder Arm, daß die Leute im Hause erschrocken zusammenliefen.

Blötzlich flog die Thür krachend auf, und die zusammengedrückte Schar konnte sehen was da drinnen vorging.

Der Wurzer stand mitten in der Stube, wies mit der ausgestreckten Hand nach der Thür und schrie: „Hinaus! auf der Stelle geht!“ und kommt mit nimmer unter mein Dach zurück. Und das Kind nimmt' Deinem Vater mit und sagt ihm, der liebe Herrgott soll's ihm heimzahlen, was er mir angethan.“

Dann kam er durch die Thür hergerannt und rief dem Just mit heiserer Stimme zu: „Spannst gleich an!“ Dann lief er mit tief herabgesunkenem Haupt in die Stube zurück, aus der er vorher gekommen, und schloß sich wieder ein.

Die Leute gehorchten. Da die Wurzerin einverstanden schien und sich willenlos fügte, trugen sie die Erschöpfte, die an allen Gliedern bebte, auf den Wagen, legten das Kind neben sie und stopften noch hier und da ein Stück Bett um sie herum. Es war ihnen plötzlich leid um die unglückliche Frau.

Reisei's Vater war wie gelähmt vor Schreck, als ihm die Tochter plötzlich mit dem Kinde vor's Haus gebracht wurde. Er stand stumm und rathlos da und schüttelte nur immerfort den Kopf.

Grab' wollten sie die Reisei herunt rieben, da kam die Stiefmutter aus dem Haus, und als sie hörte, was vorging, schrie sie ihren Mann an, ob er nicht bei Sinnen sei, daß er sich die Wurzerin, die ihn jetzt nichts mehr angehe, auf den Hals laden wolle. Wenn er die Tochter jetzt annähme und der Wurzer sie nicht auf der Stelle wieder unter sein Dach beläume, könnt's kommen, daß er sie für immer auf dem Hals behielte.

Die Reisei ächzte zum Götterbarren und bat die Eltern,
